Course Description

This course will address theoretical, empirical, and conceptual foundations of gender through intersectional, critical theoretical, and multicultural perspectives. We cover how concepts of gender influence our lived experiences. In this course, you will learn about:

1. Gender role socialization
2. Issues related to learning and education
3. Gender stereotypes
4. The influence of media
5. Gender in the work environment
6. Differences in emotional expression
7. Differences in relationships
8. Issues of diversity in educational settings

Biological and social aspects of gender, as well as sexual differences, will be a prominent theme and will be explored and discussed throughout the course. Additionally, we will discuss the intersection of multiple identities (e.g., gender, ethnicity, social class, etc.) and how our experiences, values, beliefs, and opinions impact others and the world around us. This class may include adult themes of sexuality and current diversity issues. Please see the instructor if this is going to be a problem for you.

Prerequisites

There are no course prerequisites for this course. Students should be familiar with APA format and prepared to write according to the APA 7th Edition. Please ensure you are prepared for the online course and have the required technical skills. There are technology requirements for this course.

Course Delivery Method

The course is online and asynchronous. We only meet on Zoom for office hours. The course is set up via modules. There are weekly deadlines that you must meet, but otherwise, you are free to move ahead if you want. However, I encourage you to stay on pace with the course and complete each module weekly. I provide a tutorial of the course on Canvas.

Course Expectations

If you invest the time and energy required of this course, then you will emerge as critical thinker positioned to consider the individual, interpersonal, and cultural dimensions of gender in your personal life and professional work. You should expect to spend a minimum of five to eight hours per week on this course.

High Standards, High Support

I have high standards for this class, but I believe you have the potential to meet them. Therefore, I provide critical feedback on your papers and essays to help you meet those standards. I also provide you plenty of opportunities to earn points and extra credit so that you worry less about your grade and focus on your growth.

Good Work

Success in this course requires to submission of good work. Good work is excellent, ethical, and engaging (Gardner et al., 2001). In other words, I expect your work to be brilliant at a technical, conceptual, and mechanical level (excellence), socially responsible (ethics), and connected to your values (engaged).

Good work also means that you are expected to keep track of your grades throughout the semester. Otherwise, you are expected to accept the consequences of not knowing your standing in the course prior to receiving your final course grade.

Attendance
You are expected to be prepared for each class by having the materials, otherwise, it is expected that you will accept the consequences of missing the opportunity to earn points for that quiz or other class project.

Students making satisfactory progress in their classes will be excused from classes when they are representing New Mexico State University on a university sponsored event (e.g., ASNMSU President represents NMSU at legislative session, student-athletes competing in NMSU scheduled athletic events or education field trips and conferences). Authorized absences do not relieve the student of class responsibilities. Prior written notice of the authorized absence will be provided to the instructor by the sponsoring department.

Given that the class is online, discussion posts submitted on-time counts as your attendance.

Open Communication
I encourage you to contact me if something is not working for you. If any issues arise regarding missing class time, absences, or difficulties experienced in class, it is expected that you will contact me to provide information or set up a time to meet and discuss the situation.

Per the department: if students have a complaint about a course, they are advised to discuss their concerns directly with the instructor whenever possible. If that does not resolve the problem or if they cannot approach the instructor, students should either access NMSU's online complaint system at https://dos.nmsu.edu/concerns/ or seek out the Department Head (ppost@nmsu.edu or earroyos@nmsu.edu) for help resolving the problem. Both processes provide opportunities for the department head to know about issues that need attention and for instructors to receive information about student concerns so that they can respond.

Honoring Diversity
It is expected that you will reflect on your worldview, personal biases, and values while engaging in thoughtful interaction with peers. People in our class, people in our textbook, and people in the media we consume may differ from you in regards to gender, ethnicity, race, socio-economic status, language, religion, sexual identity, regional culture, national origin, immigration status, age, indigenous background, and ability-level. I encourage you to reflect on these moments, with compassion and respect, whenever your identity differs from the identities you encounter in this course.

Course Organization

This course will use the NMSU Canvas system located at https://learn.nmsu.edu. All papers and similar written assignments should be submitted using this system. If you have technical difficulties with submitting your papers using Canvas, you may e-mail me your paper at coryjc@nmsu.edu in order to avoid a late penalty. For more information about Canvas, see the section on technology requirements.

It is the student's responsibility to regularly check emails and Canvas for updates regarding the class.

This class is organized by modules, which you can access from the Canvas homepage for CEP 320. The first eight modules focus on the conceptual foundations of the class. The second half of the course focuses on gendered communication in practice.

Please remember to check Canvas and email regularly for updates and announcements. Students are responsible for any withdrawal from the course. If a student does not attend class and does not withdraw, university policy dictates that a grade of "F" be given for the course.

Administrative Withdrawals
In the event that a student has stopped attending class without formally withdrawing, the instructor reserves the right to remove the student from the class by means of administrative withdrawal. Additionally, an administrative withdrawal is initiated for a student who is representing the university at an official out-of-town event becomes effective when the student returns from the event or five class days after the signed drop slip gets to the dean's office.

III. GOALS / OBJECTIVES

By the end of this course, you will be able to (Krathwohl, 2002):

Learning Objective	Learning Outcomes
LO 1	Students will recognize and recall historical and contemporary gender-related terms, issues, theories, movements, and concepts.
LO 2	Students will interpret, classify, summarize, compare, and explain factual and conceptual knowledge about the study of gender, culture, and communication.
LO 3	Students will interpret and explain their worldviews in the context of course content while applying theories, concepts, and terms to their lived experiences.
LO 4	Students will apply gender-related facts, concepts, and theories (e.g., feminism, sexism) in formal and informal written communication.
LO 5	Students will develop and implement scholarly writing skills using APA style.
LO 6	Students will analyze and evaluate empirical research, popular media, and their lived experiences through a gender critical lens to increase their consciousness of privilege and oppression.
LO 7	Students will apply theories and concepts to critique media, discussions, and private experience using an intersectional, systemic lens.
LO 8	Students will plan and produce critical essays to synthesize their insights.

Religious Observances and Authorized Absences

NMSU values diversity and the university supports cultural and religious inclusiveness. If your participation in cultural or religious observances (e.g. religious holidays, spiritual observances) conflicts with a particular class session, please notify me in writing and ahead of time to be excused from class for such observances.

Writing Center Information

The Writing Center offers free services to all NMSU students through one-on-one consultations at any stage in the writing process, from understanding assignment directions to revising final drafts. Consultants advise students on aspects of proofreading and editing, but do not provide editing services. Information about the Writing Center is available at https://towc.nmsu.edu/

V. GRADING / ASSIGNMENTS

Grades

Grading Policy

This course uses fractional grading. Grade reports are not automatically mailed to students. Students can access grades and credits by the web using my.nmsu.edu. It is the responsibility of the student to provide updated grade addresses to the Office of the Registrar. At the request of the student, the instructor will provide information on progress in the course prior to the last day to drop a course.

Assignment Weights

3-2-1 Discussion Posts	10%
Chapter Quizzes	10%
Reflection & Reaction Journal	30%
Major Papers & Essay	50%
TOTAL	100%

Grading Scale (% of points earned):

A = 95–100	B– = 80–82.9	D+ = 67–69.9
A– = 90–94.9	C+ = 77–79.9	D = 63–66.9
B+ = 87–89.9	C = 73–76.9	D– = 60–62.9
B = 83–86.9	C– = 70–72.9	F = 0–59.9

Assignments

The following procedures will be used to evaluate course members' mastery of course objectives. Unless otherwise stated, all assignments are due by 11:59 PM on the date listed on the course schedule. If the assignment is a paper or essay, then it should be uploaded as a Microsoft Word document to Canvas in the area for the assignment. No hard copies will be accepted. All papers and essays must be written in the format of APA 7th edition unless otherwise specified. At a minimum, all papers and essays must include the following: double spaced, in 12-point Times New Roman font, with 1" margins. Page numbers should also be 12-point Times New Roman and in the upper right on all pages.

3-2-1 Discussion Posts (5 points each) LO 1, 2, 3, 4

Every week, you will submit a discussion post (3 points) and reply (2 points). Your initial post is due every Wednesday at 11:59 PM. Your reply to a fellow student is due every Friday at 11:59 PM. For the first week of classes, this is a soft deadline.

On Wednesdays, you will choose 3 concepts / terms / ideas from the readings or PowerPoint and provide a definition in your own words. Then, you will apply 2 of the concepts / terms / ideas to your own life. You should aim for an initial post of 250 words or longer.

On Fridays, you will reply to 1 of your peers. Your reply should be substantial. One-word replies (e.g., "awesome!") and short comments (e.g., "Great point") are not sufficient. Respond to and reflect on specific points that your peer raised or apply one of their concepts / terms / ideas to your life. You should aim for responses ranging from 125–250 words or longer. While APA format is not required, you will be graded on your proficient use of the English language.

Chapter Quizzes (10 points each) LO 1, 2

After every chapter, you will take a short quiz to assess your factual and conceptual knowledge of the content. These quizzes are open book and do not have a time limit. Therefore, you have one attempt to answer each question. Questions are generated randomly and once you submit an answer, you cannot go back. Once everyone has taken the quiz, I will release the correct answers.

Reflection & Reaction Journals (25 points each) LO 1, 2, 3, 4, 6

Occasionally, you will watch or listen to selected media. In your journal, you will unpack the media clips by relating them to the course readings, PowerPoints, and peer discussions. If you mention material not covered in the course, cite your sources. You are also encouraged to discuss your own experience in relation to the clip. However, please note that only discussing your personal experience is not sufficient. To get full points, your journal entries must integrate course content, such as terms, concepts, or theories. Likewise, if you only discuss course content in a dry manner, full points will not be possible. Write about the media clip, what you learned during the course, and how both aspects relate to your personal or professional life.

Occasionally, you will be required to answer specific questions about the media clip. Please make sure that you read and answer these prompts while integrating personal experience and course content. There are no right or wrong answers. I want to see thoughtful, meaning-making reflections that indicate personal growth. See the rubric for details.

You can upload a document or submit your response via the Canvas textbox. Only the instructor will have access to these journal entries. All journal entries must be a minimum of 500 words. While APA format is not required, you will be graded on your proficient use of the English language.

Research Essay (50 points) LO 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, 8

Each student will write a research essay on a theory of gender and how it is applied to modern academics and the study of gendered lives. The essay should include a minimum of 3 academic resources, published in peer-reviewed journals and includes the student's own thoughts and opinions on how to apply the theory to the world around them. You may use your textbook, but the textbook does not count at 1 of the 3 resources. The assignment is a way to practicing academic research and thinking critically about the world.

Beyond a strong introduction and conclusion, this essay should consist of two parts: (a) the summary of the articles (i.e., describing the research objective, methods, and general results of the study; keep this section brief), and (b) your own discussion of the paper as described in the following questions:

1. Why did you choose this theory?
2. How is the research relevant or important? What are the implications of the results?
3. What are the limitations of this theory?
4. What did you find most interesting about this theory?
5. Does it support your pre-existing beliefs or challenge them?

Please make each of these questions a subheading of the paper (see proper APA style), but make sure that the flow of the essay is clear and engaging. Come up with a creative name for each heading (i.e., do not simply place the question as the heading). For example, you might use level one headings for parts (a) and (b) and level two headings for the questions under part (b). However, feel free to organize your paper in another manner, just make sure that the organization is effective. No matter what you decide, ensure that the transitions between paragraphs and questions are logical and coherent.

All papers should analyze the articles critically. Compare and contrast what you found in part (a) while you answer questions in part (b). Remember, part (b) should be longer than part (a).

The research essay should use full APA style, 7th edition, with citations (with no Abstract). All sources, including your textbook, should be cited and listed on your References page. Please see this page or the actual APA Style Manual for help with APA formatting. The paper should be between 5 and 7 pages, not including the title or references page.

Critical Media Viewing Paper (50 points) LO 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8

Students will choose a television show or a movie and participate in a critical viewing of it. Although you may choose any television show or movie that you want, I would recommend that you choose one that will help you answer the questions in this assignment. You will then write a paper about what you watched, discussing any gender stereotypes and presentations of men, women, and gender diverse people. You will use the knowledge gained from other all the chapters we have read so far, paying special attention to chapters 3–7 and 11.

Do not spend too much time summarizing the show or movie. Provide a brief, one-paragraph synopsis of the show or movie. Then, use examples from the show or movie to answer these questions:

- How are women portrayed?
- How are men portrayed?
- If there are transgender or gender non-conforming people in the show or movie, how are they portrayed?
    - If they are not in the show or movie, how do you make of that?
- What kind of verbal and nonverbal communication is evident, through a gender-critical lens?
- Are there any differences / similarities in how men, women, and gender diverse people (if applicable) are portrayed according to age, ability status, religion, ethnicity, sexual orientation, class, indigenous heritage, or national origin?

Please make each of these questions a subheading of the paper (see proper APA style), but make sure that the flow of the essay is clear and engaging. Come up with a creative name for each heading (i.e., do not simply place the question as the heading). For example, you might use level one headings for parts (a) and (b) and level two headings for the questions under part (b). However, feel free to organize your paper in another manner, just make sure that the organization is effective. No matter what you decide, ensure that the transitions between paragraphs and questions are logical and coherent.

All papers must:

- Include an introduction, body, and conclusion
- Apply terms, concepts, and theories from the textbook in understanding the show or movie
- Analyze how men, women, and people with diverse genders are portrayed
- Evaluate whether these portrayals are realistic and humanizing

This paper should use full APA style, 7th edition, with citations as appropriate (with no Abstract). Make sure to cite the show or movie according to APA format. While you are not required to cite outside literature, any sources, including your textbook, should be cited and listed on your References page. In other words, every paper should include a citation for the textbook! Please see this page or the actual APA Style Manual for help with APA formatting. The paper should be between 5 and 7 pages, not including the title or references page.

Personal Narrative Paper (100 points) LO 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8

One key component of this course involves encouraging students to make connections between personal, subjective experience and theoretical perspectives. To facilitate making these connections, you are asked to reflect critically on your own educational experiences within the context of theories and perspectives shared in class. Write a personal narrative on some facet of your educational experience and interpret your story with the assistance of a theoretical perspective introduced in our class or discovered through your own research. (Make sure to carefully document your sources.) In other words, identify a specific perspective addressed in class or the textbook and use it to interpret some facet of your own educational experience.

For the assignment, you may want to consider the following when deciding on what aspect of your education to focus on. This list is not to be considered exhaustive—choose an area that seems worth writing about.

- Athletics
- Behavioral issues
- Teachers
- Major and/or career selection
- Areas of privilege in your education, as well as areas where you have experienced disadvantage
- Intersection of other aspects of your identity with your gender, and how that impacted your education
- Peer relations at different ages

In writing this narrative, focus on themes throughout your educational experience (e.g., your experience with athletics in elementary, middle, and high school and college) or incidents (e.g., the reaction others had to your selection of major). Remember, you are not only sharing the facts of what happened, you are now reinterpreting the experience through course material and theories presented. Make sure this paper has a strong introduction and conclusion. You might want to organize it using headings, but this is not a requirement.

All papers must:

- Include an introduction, body, and conclusion
- Apply the theory to lived experiences
- Analyze how parts of the theory explain or organize lived experiences
- Critique how the theory is inadequate—what is missing? What does it not explain?

Given that this is a narrative essay, some students may be concerned about others reading their paper. Only the instructor of the course will have access to read the material and it will not be shared with other students. If there are concerns regarding any disclosures, please talk with your instructor. This paper should use full APA style, 7th edition, with citations as appropriate (with no Abstract). While you are not required to cite outside literature, any sources, including your textbook, should be cited and listed on your References page. In other words, every paper should include a citation for the textbook! Please see this page or the actual APA Style Manual for help with APA formatting. The paper should be between 5 and 7 pages, not including the title or references page.

Final Exam

There is no final exam for this course.

Extra Credit

1. CHOOSE ONE. Extra credit opportunities worth up to 10% of your final grade, but no more, even if you complete multiple of these tasks. However, these opportunities can be combined with the extra credit from course feedback.

a. You may attend counseling sessions at the Counseling & Educational Psychology Clinic in O'Donnell Hall Rm. 047 for a total of 8 sessions. No partial credit.
b. You may also attend at least 3 workshops/discussions on campus. You will be required to write a 1-page (minimum 500 words) reflection about what you took away from the workshops/discussion, how it applies to developing relationships, and how it influences the way you communicate with others. No partial credit.
c. You may also participate in at least 5 research studies. You will be required to submit a debriefing form that is provided by the research team. No partial credit.

2. FEEDBACK. Extra credit from course feedback, which can be combined with extra credit opportunities worth 10% of your grade.
   a. If you fill out the mid-term evaluation (i.e., short survey via REDCap) and email a screenshot of the final page, you will be credited 2% points to a major project of your choice (i.e., Research Essay [1 point], Critical Media Viewing Paper [1 point], or Personal Narrative Paper [2 points]).
   b. If you decide to fill out the end-of-semester quantitative evaluation (i.e., short survey via REDCap), you will receive 1% towards your final grade (e.g., 89% becomes 90%).
   c. If you fill out the official NMSU qualitative course evaluation at the end of the course (not the survey), you will receive 2% towards your final grade (e.g., 88% becomes 90%).

Syllabus Modifications Statement

The instructor reserves the right to modify the syllabus at any time. Modifications will be shared via email, Canvas message, or a Canvas announcement.

VII. POLICIES

Communication

I will communicate with you via Canvas. I will send urgent and regular communication to all students using the Announcements tool in Canvas. It is a requirement in this class that you set your New Announcements in Notifications to "Right Away" to ensure that you receive any announcements. (Go to Profile>Notifications, find for new announcements and set to Right Away).

Grading and Feedback

I will attempt to grade all assignments within one to two weeks. Consistent with the course expectations described above, longer assignments will include feedback to help you grow as a critical thinker.

Late Assignments and Make-Up Work

Unless covered by Attendance Policies concerning make-up work for students who are absent on university business, all late work receives a penalty and no late work during the final week of classes will be accepted.

There are two exceptions:

1. You receive one free late assignment, no questions asked. Just let me know which assignment you plan to use this freebie on. Tell me anytime, but preferably 24 hours before the due date. No late penalty will be applied if the assignment is submitted within 48 hours.
2. You can avoid one late penalty if I receive notice of a valid excuse 24 hours before the due date. No late penalty will be applied if the assignment is submitted within 48 hours.

Otherwise, all late assignments lose 10% of the final grade for each day that they are late.

Incomplete Grades

Under university policy, incompletes may be given only if a student has a passing grade at mid-semester (the last day to withdraw from a class) and is precluded from successful completion of the second half of the course by a documented illness, documented death, family crisis or other similar circumstances beyond the student's control. An incomplete should not be given to avoid assigning a grade for marginal or failing work. Instructors assigning the "I" grade can choose to make the "I" grade permanent, and require students to register for the course in a subsequent semester to earn credit (Option A), or may allow students to complete remaining work in the course by an identified deadline (within one year) and then submit a change of grade form to substitute the earned grade for the "I" grade (Option B). Requirements for removal of the "I" grade under Option B must be clearly stated on the "I" grade form. Incompletes do not automatically convert to F's if the course is not completed. Under Option B, the faculty member can state on the form that an incomplete will become an F, but then it is incumbent upon the instructor to process a change of grade form to accomplish that result.

Class Withdrawals

It is your responsibility to know important dates such as the final day to withdraw from classes. You must officially withdraw from any class that you intend to drop. If you will take responsibility for withdrawing students from the course, please make sure to explain to students what happens to qualify for it.

Multiple Submissions

It is not permissible for the student to submit work that has been submitted for credit in other courses. I submit all papers and essays to Turnitin.com, as well as other online tools, prior to grading (expect for the personal narrative paper). Visit this university website at for details on NMSU Guidance and proper use of Turnitin. Papers with evidence of plagiarism entail consequences (see below). To learn how to avoid plagiarism, check out these free tools and make sure you know the definition.

Students found to have committed an act of plagiarism, one or more of the following consequences will occur; and, a written statement outlining the offense and consequences will be placed in the student's permanent file by the Department Head/Hearing Officer.

1. Failure of the course assignment;
2. Failure of the course;
3. Academic suspension for one or two semesters;
4. Dismissal or expulsion from the program.

There is no statute of limitations for an act of plagiarism. Once committed, a student can be held accountable at any time even after the semester has ended.

Academic Misconduct

The Student Code of Conduct defines academic misconduct, non-academic misconduct and the consequences or penalties for each.

VIII. ONLINE PREPARATION

Required Technical Skills

Taking an online course requires numerous technical skills as well as other soft skills. However, at a minimum you will need to meet certain technology responsibilities to complete work for this course. If you have questions about technical requirements for the course, please contact me immediately.

To begin in this course, you must:

1. Read this syllabus carefully and contact me immediately if you have any questions. You are responsible for the content and assignments in this syllabus.
2. Be able to obtain access to an internet connection, preferably broadband, and a working computer for the duration of this course.
3. Be Proficient with Microsoft Office applications.
4. Be able to conduct research searches on the Internet; see the libguide for this course, the NMSU Library and Research Help for Students
5. Find resources on the Internet.
6. Be able to send and receive emails and email attachments in an out of class.
7. Know how to change your Canvas Notification settings.
8. Know how to read email in Canvas.
9. Maintain backups of all work you create for this course.

Netiquette

Example of Web Netiquette Expectations

1. Always be polite and respectful online correspondences.
2. Do not attack. Listen gently to others views.
3. Pay attention to your word choice. Be sensitive to others.
4. Use spell check. Consider installing Grammarly.
5. Avoid using all caps. (All caps is considered to be shouting.)

Technology Requirements

Supported Software

- Canvas
- Zoom
- Microsoft Office
- TurnItIn

Computer and Operating System

- 4GB of RAM or higher
- Dual Core 2GHz or higher (Intel Core i5 processor or equivalent)
- Microphone (built-in, wired, USB, wireless or Bluetooth)
- Web camera (built-in or USB)

Operating System

- Windows 10 or higher
- OS X 10.13 or higher

A list of Academic Technology favorite microphones and USB webcams can be found at https://learning.nmsu.edu/minimum-technology-requirements/

Internet

- Broadband connection (25 Mbps download, 3Mbps upload as defined by the FCC)
- Wired connection (ethernet) preferred
- Stable wireless connection is acceptable
- Use the NMSU Checs Speedtest to test your internet speed

Web Browsers

- Latest two versions of Chrome
- Latest two versions of Firefox

Javascript must be enabled

Use only the latest version of Google Chrome or Mozilla Firefox for Canvas. Safari, Internet Explorer and Microsoft Edge have known issues that can interfere with performing basic tasks within Canvas. The links to ensure you have the latest version are listed below:

Participar en un proceso continuo de descubrimiento en nuestros respectivos campos para que lo que le ofrecemos a nuestros estudiantes sea de la más alta esencia.

NMSU READY - Crimson Commitment Classroom COVID-19 Safe Practices Acknowledgement Form

* Syllabus Addendum *

CLASS Number/Name:

Because COVID-19 is a disease that spreads primarily from person to person, all employees, students and visitors are expected to take personal responsibility for their own health, help protect the health of others, and keep the Aggie community safe from the spread of COVID-19 and other infections.

To minimize the risk to public health presented by the spread of COVID-19 while working and learning at NMSU, students are expected to adhere to the following expectations:

NMSU CLASSROOM SAFETY EXPECTATIONS	My Initials
1. I understand the NMSU Ready- Crimson Commitment Statement and *I commit to: • Personally Protect My Own Health • Protect Other Aggies • Keep the Aggie Community Safe
2. I will wear the multilayer cloth face covering or personal protective equipment and practice proper hand-washing techniques frequently. If I need an exception for the face covering, I will contact the Office of Dean of Students via email at DOS@nmsu.edu.
3. I will maintain physical distance of at least 6 feet between myself and others to limit the chance of acquiring or spreading COVID-19.
4. I will follow instructions regarding the decontamination of classroom work surfaces and my personal work space.
5. I will follow instructions regarding seating instructions in campus classrooms.
6. I agree to closely monitor my health and will not attend class or participate in face-to-face activities if I feel sick or if I develop or display symptoms of COVID-19.
7. If I have a positive test for COVID-19 or I develop symptoms, I agree to notify the Aggie Health and Wellness Center (call 575-646-1512 or email campus_health@nmsu.edu).
8. If I am unable or unwilling to comply with the Classroom COVID-19 Safe Practices I will leave the classroom willingly and seek alternative academic course options.
9. I understand that failure to follow these expected behaviors would be detrimental to public health efforts and could impact my ability to continue my coursework at NMSU.
10. I acknowledge the importance of following COVID-19 Classroom Safety Practices and I understand that should I fail to meet any of these expectations I may be subject to action as per the NMSU Student Social Code of Conduct (ARP 5.20).

I understand and acknowledge the following Classroom COVID-19 Safe Practices and will abide by these expectations throughout the duration of the course.

Rubric – 3-2-1 Discussion Posts

Initial Post

CRITERIA	3	2	1	0
Quality / Relevance	Posts are substantive, thoughtful, and reflect the student's understanding of the readings. Posts apply concepts to the student's life in a novel or enriching way. All requirements of the assignment are met.	Posts are appropriate but the student could offer a deeper reflection. Posts reflect the reading and concepts are applied to the student's life in an appropriate manner. At least one requirement is missing.	Minimum effort evident (e.g., "I agree with Micala."). Posts are not relevant or offer little thoughtful reflection. More than one requirement is missing from the post.	No post.

Reply Post

CRITERIA	2	1	0
Quality / Relevance	Replies are substantive and reflect that the student read the peer's post and course readings. Replies enrich the discussion.	Replies lack substance; replies do not reflect the reading or thought about the reading. Minimum effort is evident.	No reply.

Rubric – Reflection & Reaction Journals

CRITERIA	Exemplary	Accomplished	Developing	Beginning	Unacceptable
Content Reflection	10	8	7	5	0
	Reflection demonstrates a high degree of critical thinking in applying, analyzing, and evaluating key course concepts and theories from readings, lectures, media, and/or discussions. Insightful and relevant connections made through contextual explanations, inferences, and examples.	Reflection demonstrates some degree of critical thinking in applying, analyzing, and/or evaluating key course concepts and theories from readings, lectures, media, and/or discussions. Connections made through explanations, inferences, and/or examples.	Reflection demonstrates limited critical thinking in applying, analyzing, and/or evaluating key course concepts and theories from readings, lectures, media, and/or discussions. Minimal connections made through explanations, inferences, and/or examples.	Reflection lacks critical thinking. Superficial connections are made with key course concepts and course materials, and/or discussions.	Completely unrelated to the readings or other media.
Personal Growth	10	8	7	5	0
	Conveys strong evidence of reflection. If applicable, answers any questions completely. Demonstrates significant personal growth and awareness of deeper meaning through inferences made, examples, well-developed insights, and substantial depth in perceptions and challenges. Synthesizes current experience into future implications.	Conveys evidence of reflection. If applicable, answers any questions decently. Demonstrates satisfactory personal growth and awareness through some inferences made, examples, insights, and challenges. Some thought of the future implications of current experience.	Conveys some evidence of reflection. If applicable, somewhat answers any questions. Demonstrates satisfactory personal growth and awareness through some inferences made, examples, insights, and challenges. Some thought of the future implications of current experience.	Conveys inadequate evidence of reflection. If applicable, somewhat answers any questions completely. Personal growth and awareness are not evident and/or demonstrates a neutral experience with negligible personal impact. Lacks enough inferences, examples, personal insights and challenges, and/or future implications are overlooked.	No evidence of personal growth or insight.
Writing Quality	5	4	3	2	0
	Well-written and clearly organized using standard English, characterized by elements of a strong writing style and basically free from grammar, punctuation, usage, and spelling errors. At least 500 words.	Above-average writing style and logically organized using standard English with minor errors in grammar, punctuation, usage, and spelling. Five hundred word minimum may not be met.	Average and/or casual writing style that is sometimes unclear and/or with some errors in grammar, punctuation, usage, and spelling. Five hundred word minimum may not be met.	Poor writing style lacking in standard English, clarity, language used, and/or frequent errors in grammar, punctuation, usage, and spelling. Needs work. Five hundred word minimum may not be met.	Not comprehensible.

Identifies a relevant gender theory and establishes a thesis that provides adequate direction for the paper with some degree of interest for the reader. The thesis states the position and is the focal point of the paper for the most part.	Identifies a gender theory but may be too broad in scope and/or the thesis is somewhat unclear and needs to be developed further. Focal point is not consistently maintained throughout the paper.	Fails to identify a relevant gender theory or is not clearly defined and/or the paper lacks focus throughout.	The reader cannot perceive the purpose.
Analysis	5	4	3	2	0
	Demonstrates a sophisticated understanding and careful, critical analysis of the research topic and key questions.	Demonstrates an understanding and some critical analysis of the research topic and key questions.	Demonstrates general understanding with limited critical analysis of the research topic and key questions.	Demonstrates a lack of understanding and inadequate analysis of the research topic and key questions.	Little to no analysis.
Evaluation	5	4	3	2	0
	Compares/contrasts perspectives, considers counter-arguments or opposing positions, and draws original and thoughtful conclusions with future implications.	Adequately compares/contrasts perspectives, counter-arguments, or opposing positions but broader connections and/or implications are not as thoroughly explored.	Summarizes perspectives, counter-arguments, or opposing positions.	Evaluation is superficial, based on opinions and preferences, rather than critical analysis.	Little to no evaluation.
Quality of Evidence	5	4	3	2	0
	At least three references AND references are primarily peer-reviewed professional journals or other approved sources (e.g., government documents, agency manuals, etc.). The reader is confident that the information and ideas can be trusted.	At least three references AND although most of the references are professionally legitimate, a few are questionable (e.g., trade books, internet sources, popular magazines, etc.). The reader is uncertain of the reliability of some of the sources.	Only two references OR most of the references are from sources that are not peer-reviewed and have uncertain reliability. The reader doubts the accuracy of much of the material presented.	Only one reference OR the reference(s) are not professionally reliable.	No references. Quality of evidence is not reliable.
